Alumni Participants:

Adam Chapman, BA '99
Communication Studies
While still a Senior at NU, Adam parlayed his co-op at WFNX-FM in Lynn into a nightly radio show. In June of 2000, he took his show on the road to Albuquerque to host afternoons (and eventually mornings) at KTEG-FM. In addition to the morning show, Adam voicetracked afternoon shows at KTCL-FM in Denver and KCPX-FM in Salt Lake City. After auditioning in late 2002, "Adam 12" was named midday host at 104.1 WBCN-FM, the Rock of Boston, where he has enjoyed ratings success for the last 4 years.

Robert Fisher, BS '98
Criminal Justice
Robert graduated from Northeastern in 1998 and completed a Law Degree from Boston University School of Law in 2001. After law school Robert worked as an assistant district attorney in Middlesex County from September 2001-December 2003. He has been assistant attorney general since January 2004 assigned to the Special Investigations and Narcotics Division. He currently prosecutes members of organized crime and sophisticated drug trafficking organizations.

Jim Kane, BS '91
Finance/International Business
While at NU, Jim worked with the homeless in emergency shelters for The Pine St. Inn. After graduation, Jim taught English in Spain and worked in Alaska. Returning to Boston in '94 he worked for the City of Boston's Homeless Services and The Pine St. Inn's shelters and transitional programs. In 1998, Jim went to work for his family company, Acu-Gage Systems, until he left to form his own manufacturer's representative business, Purchasing Advocates, in 2002. Since 2004 Jim has been the Director of Business Development for Employ+Ability, a nonprofit in Braintree, MA with a mission to employ adults with disabilities.

Mark Keegan, BS '98
Chemical Engineering
After graduating from Northeastern, Mark attended Cornell University's doctorate program in chemical engineering. His thesis topic was biodegradable materials for drug delivery applications. While a graduate student Mark was a National Defense Science and Engineering Graduate Fellow, and did research for two years at Yale as an Exchange Scholar, earning his Cornell degree in 2004. He then worked for Draper Labs in Cambridge as a senior member of the technical staff in their Bioengineering group. His current work at Draper involves drug delivery and tissue engineering.

George Proakis, BS '95
Civil Engineering
George Proakis is the Chief Planner for the City of Lowell, Massachusetts. George has been working in the City's Division of Planning and Development since 2002, participating in completing the City's Comprehensive Master Plan, rewriting the city's zoning code and pursuing the redevelopment of a 15-acre site called the "Hamilton Canal District." George has served as a representative to the Fenway Planning Task Force, participating in creating development guidelines for Boston's Fenway neighborhood, and is currently on the Board of Directors of the New England Chapter of the Congress of the New Urbanism. After graduating from Northeastern, George received a Master of Public Administration Degree from the Maxwell School at Syracuse University, and a Master of City Planning Degree from MIT.

Daniel Rinehart, BS '00
Computer Science
While at NU Daniel held co-op jobs at CCS as a system administrator, as a software developer at BiT Group, and at NU as a research assistant. After graduation he returned to BiT Group and did consulting and development for Cisco, Dell Financial Services, and BJ's. Starting in 2002, he worked as a senior developer on a product development team within Towers Perrin creating an online pension administration application. Daniel returned to the startup environment in 2005 joining Ruckus Network as a principal software engineer developing online features to support a digital media service. In early 2006 Ruckus shutdown its Boston operations. Since then Daniel has been employed as a software architect at Allurent, a startup based in Cambridge focused on empowering superior online shopping. Additionally Daniel has been pursuing a masters CS degree part-time at NU since 2005.

Doug Tillberg, BS '00
Political Science
Doug Tillberg is a 2000 NU graduate, majoring in Political Science, and a 2004 graduate of Boston College Law School. At NU, Doug co-oped at several private law firms. In law school, he clerked for the General Counsel of the UMass system. Since law school, Doug has worked as a judicial law clerk, spending his first year with the state intermediate Appeals Court and the remainder with the state Supreme Court. He presently works for the Honorable Judith A. Cowin.

Tara Timmerman, MD, BS '92
Biology
After graduating from Northeastern, Tara went on to medical school at Mount Sinai School of Medicine in New York City. In her final year there, she was granted a fellowship in medical ethics at Oxford University. In May of 1996 she graduated from Mount Sinai and returned to Boston for her residency in Internal Medicine at Boston University. After becoming board certified in Internal Medicine in 1999, she went on to do a fellowship in Nephrology at New York University. She then became board certified in Nephrology in 2001. Since that time, Tara has been developing a private practice on the Upper East Side of Manhattan, which she now calls home. She is also an attending physician at Lenox Hill Hospital and is involved in teaching the hospitals' house-staff and nephrology fellows on a regular basis. She has developed a physician society at Lenox Hill Hospital which focuses on the issues of the hospital's younger physicians.

Sabrina Woods, BA '93
