In the Loop
February 2008

Greetings,

January sure went by in a flash! We hope that you have settled into your new co-op responsibilities, new routine, and for some of you, new surroundings. The Co-op Connections crew have been busy planning events for this term and we hope you take advantage of them! Please check out the events section of this newsletter,but also visit coopconnections.neu.edu for a more detailed list.

We will continue to send you updates of important campus news as well as ways for you to stay connected and meet new people while on co-op.

If you have any suggestions on how we can make your life on co-op the best it can be, please feel free to email Sonya Mariotti at s.mariotti@neu.edu.

Take care,

Sonya, Julia, & Alexa

Husky Happenings

BJ Novak, best known as Ryan on NBC's "The Office," performed for a full house at Blackman Auditorium last night. With plenty of laughs echoing throughout the hall, Novak and opener Dan Mintz received a standing ovation from the 1,000 in attendance at the end of the night.

The event, which was put on by Kappa Sigma, began around 8 p.m. and finished around 11 p.m. An autograph and photograph session with Novak followed.

Recent Events

TGI Friday's 1/22/2008

About 30 co-op students joined VP, Ed Kloztbier and Co-op Connections Program Manager Sonya Mariotti at TGI Fridays in Midtown. Most students in attendance live on one of the two NU leased locations in NYC and this was a great opportunity for them to meet and make some new friends. Co-op Connections plans to travel back to NYC in late spring to give all the students in the area a chance to meet one another...so stay tuned!

Merrill Lynch 1/23/2008

Through a connection with 06' alum Michael Mandell, Co-op Connections and Alumni Relations were able to bring together co-op students, alumni, and Merrill Lynch managers. The evening was a chance to welcome the current co-op students working for Merrill Lynch and provide them a chance to meet one another to create a supportive NU network while in NYC, as well as the chance to learn about different positions and opportunities available at Merrill Lynch. Students also had the opportunity to hear from Michael Mandell about his experience as a Merrill Lynch co-op to his current position in the Risk Management division, and a chance to meet and network with NU Alumni currently employed by Merrill Lynch. The event was a huge success!
