

March 24, 2010

IRis : digital scholarship, publishing, and preservation at Northeastern University

Hillary Corbett
Northeastern University

Recommended Citation

Corbett, Hillary, "IRis : digital scholarship, publishing, and preservation at Northeastern University" (2010). IRis. Paper 4.
<http://hdl.handle.net/2047/d20000038>

This work is available open access, hosted by Northeastern University.

IRis

Digital Scholarship, Publishing, and Preservation
at Northeastern University

Northeastern University University Libraries

Presented by: Hillary Corbett, Scholarly Communication Librarian
h.corbett@neu.edu | 617.373.2352

Deposit Your Publications

IRis is a digital archive that collects, manages, preserves, and shares the intellectual output and historical record of Northeastern University.

It has been a service of the University Libraries since 2006 and has recently been upgraded to a new software platform with increased functionality.

Why IRis?

Easy to use and highly functional:

- Submit your files quickly
- Receive monthly e-mail reports on downloads of your work
- Make your work permanently available via the Internet

Professional exposure:

- Allows others to quickly find, use, and cite your work
- Content is indexed by Google and readily accessible worldwide
- Showcases your scholarship to other researchers, funding sources, potential collaborators, and others

Who is it for?

- NU researchers and scholars who want to promote and preserve their intellectual output
- NU administrators who need to preserve important University records
- Anyone seeking the published research of NU faculty or documents and publications produced by the university

Examples of IRis content:

- Preprint and postprint versions of published journal articles
- Research and technical papers
- Electronic dissertations and master's theses produced at NU
- Conference presentations
- Video and audio recordings of speeches and events
- Historical and contemporary publications and documents produced by NU
- Data sets: statistical, geospatial, etc.
- Learning objects, such as
 - Interactive models
 - Instructional portals

Publish Journals and Organize Conferences

- Produce your open access journal, including online management of the submission and peer review process

➤ NU's flagship open-access journal has been operating in IRis since 2006!

- Organize your next conference, from registration setup to abstract submissions to published online proceedings

How to Get Started

1. Faculty: Contact your department's library liaison.
Don't know who this is? Visit http://www.lib.neu.edu/services/subject_specialists/
Staff: Contact Joan Krizack, University Archivist and Head of Special Collections : 617-373-8318 | j.krizack@neu.edu
2. Decide what types of material you'll be depositing, and make sure you hold the right to deposit it. Your liaison will help set up collections that fit your needs, and library staff can provide copyright guidance.
3. Deposit your work! IRis provides a permanent online presence for your research output and other materials. Library staff are available to help you.

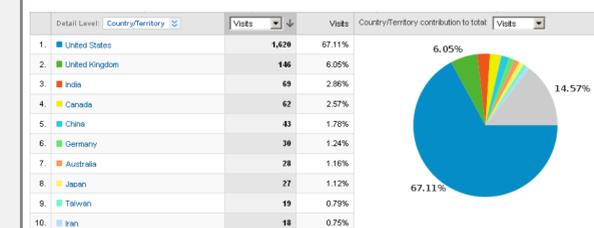

iris.lib.neu.edu

Increase Visibility of Your Research

Access to IRis in February 2010:

Top 10 countries:

In February 2010, 64% of all IRis visits came via Google. Of those, the majority were new visitors.

